Project Title	AI BASED VOICE CODING
Description of Project: In this digital era there are various digitization happening like the AI is deploying so fast, various automations are happening, taking place of human and reducing the efforts of human. And all these things are happening because of programmers/developers as they are working hard for the development of the technology. As effect of this work many developers/programmers are facing various physical / mental disorders like stress, carpal tunnel syndrome and more problems. So we are developing a system which will reduce their injuries or problems like this, by creating a solution i.e. they have to just speak the instructions of the code they want. For example, If we want to define a function hello we can use the instruction “add function hello” then the system will generate the proper code “def hello(): ” .
